HONORING PLACE IN A CHANGING WORLD

NUNAPUT STEWARDSHIP THROUGH SCIENCE: SCHOLARS PROGRAM

Do you care about environmental, energy, or other issues in your community? UAF Bristol Bay Campus has begun a scholarship program for students interested in becoming better stewards of Nunaput.

Nunaput, Yup’ik for “our place, our land.”

COMMIT: Commit to action as a NUNAPUT Scholar. By applying into the program, you make a commitment to becoming a better steward of your community and to succeeding in your educational goals.

GET INSPIRED: By becoming a NUNAPUT Scholar, you will engage with personal mentor(s) who will help to nurture and guide your academic growth. You will also engage your peers, professors and Alaska Native leaders during face-to-face orientation meeting, lab intensives and Stewardship Summits.

GET INFORMED: By becoming a NUNAPUT Scholar, you will enroll in a number of stewardship-themed courses tailored to your educational goals.

GET PREPARED: If you are in need of improving your math skills you will have the ability to reach your educational goals through the support of a personalized Math Success Plan via the Math Academy.

TAKE ACTION: You will be supported in conducting a community research project to help create local solutions to an environmental, energy-related or cultural issue of relevance to you & your community.

SHARE IT: As a Nunaput Scholar, you will be supported in sharing your knowledge and the results of your research project by giving a presentation to your community, village council, other native organization, and/or at a regional science conference.

Students must apply to become a Nunaput Stewardship Scholar recipient. Priority will be given to students in the Environmental Science or Sustainable Energy Programs at UAF Bristol Bay Campus. Alaska Native students are strongly encouraged to apply. Stipends will range in size up to $6000 per year and cover any combination of tuition, books, materials and living allowance. Visit www.uaf.edu/bbc or call the UAF Bristol Bay Campus at 842-5109 or 800-478-5109 to find out more information. UAF is an AA/EO employer and educational institution.
