Gaalee’ya STEM Science Symposium

Save the Date: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on May 12

FREE Science Symposium: Integrating Traditional Culture & Ecology of Place

When: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, May 12
Open to the public
Breakfast and lunch provided

What: Symposium featuring presentations from UAF students about integration of culture and place into all aspects of the academic STEM experience

Where: Great Room in the Harper Building
UAF’s Interior-Aleutians Campus

G aalee’ya, it’s a luck that you get by learning to live right with the land and the animals, including people, and everything around you, you respect everything. It gives you the power to know the things that help you survive in a good way. You gotta protect this luck by respect. All these things are going to come back again, so you gotta listen and learn from the elders.”
~ Elder Howard Luke,
Founder of the Gaalee’ya Spirit Camp

For more information:
sjwildfeuer@alaska.edu
474-1923