Late fees will be assessed if accounts are not paid in accordance with the above deadlines. Payment is due by the published deadline even if a bill is not received. Other than tuition, mandatory and additional fees (including insurance), housing and dining, which are due according to the schedule above, any charges owed to the university are due within 30 days. You may be dropped from your classes if your account is not paid or other payment arrangements have not been made by the fee payment deadline. It is your responsibility to periodically check your account to ensure you are in good standing.
