VALUES
- We seek to honor the Indigenous values and knowledge of our peoples
- Always consider future generations in making decisions for today
- Sustainability in our movement is key for ourselves and our communities
- When we share what we know, we are made stronger
The Northern Alaska Indigenous Leadership Academy (NAILA) is a dynamic leadership development program specifically designed for emerging leaders. NAILA is facilitated by a team of Indigenous Elders and instructors committed to community-based wellness and sustainable development. Together, with our students, NAILA is helping to prepare a new generation of Alaska Native leaders to meet the challenges ahead.

In 2017 and 2018, the first and second cohorts of NAILA students successfully completed the program and are now working as part of a larger network across the state committed to building a more sustainable future in the north.

Curriculum
- Blends Western education and Indigenous knowledge
- Community Sustainability
- Healing and Wellness
- Leadership Development
- Insight and wisdom from Elders

Blended Course Delivery
- Audio conference
- Face-to-face retreat
- Social media network for ongoing support

About the NAILA 2017 and 2018 cohorts
- 12 men and 36 women
- Age ranging from 20 - 46
- Traditional and nontraditional students as well as college graduates
- Native Youth Olympic coaches
- Volunteers in their communities and churches
- Live a traditional subsistence lifestyle
- One mayor and a city council member

"NAILA gave me a connection to my heritage that I never had before, because I grew up in California instead of the North Slope. The Indigenous aspect of my NAILA experience gave me permission to be Native and motivated me to embrace opportunities to serve my community instead of holding back. I am very grateful for the generosity of NAILA’s sponsors.”
Nancy Grant
Iḷisaġvik College Student

"NAILA helped me to organize my dreams and map out my path forward to achieving my dreams.”
Diloola Erickson
University of Alaska Fairbanks Alumni, Kaltag/Fairbanks

"I found the most dynamic part of NAILA to be the expectations of public speaking; public speaking on personal and often less-discussed topics like historical and intergenerational trauma. I found it to be important that the participants came together with shared histories and shared visions of the future to work on improving the circumstances we find ourselves in now.”
Freddie Olin
University of Alaska Fairbanks Student

"NAILA gave me a connection to my heritage that I never had before, because I grew up in California instead of the North Slope. The Indigenous aspect of my NAILA experience gave me permission to be Native and motivated me to embrace opportunities to serve my community instead of holding back. I am very grateful for the generosity of NAILA’s sponsors.”
Nancy Grant
Iḷisaġvik College Student
Academy Timeline

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Event</th>
<th>Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Application period for third NAILA cohort begins.</td>
<td>October 10, 2018</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deadline for applications.</td>
<td>November 8, 2018</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Announcement of participant selection.</td>
<td>November 22, 2018</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Third NAILA Cohort</td>
<td>April 12-17, 2019</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Our Goal:
NAILA will engage a new generation of Alaska Native leaders and provide them with leadership skills to promote community development from within. Participants will become part of a peer network that will continue to foster organic dialogue, partnership, and initiatives, as well as, connect them with future opportunities to advance their skills and education.

Who should apply:
Individuals (18 years and older) from Alaska who are working for or are interested in the health and well being of our communities. Artists, hunters, community members, students, professionals, educators, and parents are encouraged to apply. We seek individuals interested in creative and innovative approaches to revitalizing our cultures, languages, and ways of living, utilizing Indigenous knowledge and modern technology. To contact NAILA please email: uaf-naila@alaska.edu. To apply, visit: www.uaf.edu/naila/

Academy Information:
NAILA has a limited capacity and we can only accept 25 people into the Academy. Full scholarships to cover travel, tuition, lodging and meals will be provided to all accepted applicants. We have experienced that this number of participants allows for strong relationships to be built and adequate opportunity to participate for all. We are planning to accept a broad range of participants from across Northern Alaska, with diversity in culture, gender, and background. Please understand that if you are not accepted for this cohort it is most likely due to a limitation on the spaces we have available.

---

ExxonMobil

The Northern Alaska Indigenous Leadership Academy is made possible, in part, by a generous contribution from ExxonMobil. ExxonMobil, the largest publicly traded international oil and gas company, uses technology and innovation to help meet the world’s growing energy needs. They are one of the top three petroleum producers in Alaska and operate Point Thomson, a natural-gas condensate production facility, on the North Slope.

---

UAF is an AA/EO employer and educational institution and prohibits illegal discrimination against any individual: www.alaska.edu/nondiscrimination/. Ilisaġvik College offers equal employment opportunity to prospective employees. Applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, creed, color, gender, age, nationality, sexual orientation, veteran or disability status.