STRATEGIES FOR MAXIMIZING SALARY AND WORKING CONDITIONS

PRESENTERS

Amanda White, Program Director of Applied Management at UAF School of Management and member, Provost's Faculty Development Team

Abel Bult-Ito, Professor of Neurobiology and Neuropsychology at UAF Department of Biology and Wildlife and President of United Academics

The starting salary in your first academic position can affect your lifetime earning potential, yet many people do not negotiate the terms of their job offer. This workshop will present concrete strategies regarding how, and when, it is appropriate to negotiate. It will also address strategies to discuss balancing your workload. Participants will hear about patterns of initial salary negotiations among different groups; engage in a mock salary negotiation; and interact with a panel of UAF administrators and faculty.
