Summer Sessions & Lifelong Learning does not operate in a vacuum. In 2011, all of the 250+ academic classes were collaborations with campus units. The 37 special events were supported by units across campus as well as the Fairbanks business community. Whether it is a chemistry class or the Really Free Market, there is a fabric of cooperation between individuals who want to make our campus and our community better. A huge thank you goes out to each individual and organization without whose help SSLL could not thrive. This report reflects but a fraction of those relationships. A special thanks goes to Dirk Tordoff, film archivist and creator of the summer film series Reel History. His genius for knowing Alaskan films and making them available to the general public provided hours of enjoyment for hundreds of summer visitors, students and Fairbanksans. He is just one example of how working together, we can be more responsive to our campus and the community it serves. Each year we welcome the collaborative opportunities that come our way. To paraphrase an adage, “if the attitude is right, the ability to turn ideas into reality will follow.”

THE SWEET SUMMER DEAL  A new and exciting financial aid addition encouraging students to attend full time in the summer was the Sweet Summer Deal (SSD). Students took up to 14 credits and only paid for 10 credits, if each course was completed with a “C” or better. To sweeten the deal, Residence Life in cooperation with Student Services provided those students living on campus with a 28% discount on housing.

LAW & ORDER FAIRBANXS The newest addition to our array of youth programs was Law & Order Fairbanks: Inside the Criminal Justice System, piquing the interest of junior and senior high school students on the inner workings of today’s criminal justice system. Professor Ed Husted, Coordinator of the Community and Technical College’s Paralegal Program and Assistant Professor Mike Daku of UAF’s Justice Department created this week-long camp, offering students an opportunity to explore the many facets of law enforcement agencies throughout Fairbanks. A grant from the State of Alaska Division of Juvenile Justice provided scholarships for eligible students.

WINTERMESTER LECTURE  Our first ever WINTERmester public event was a free, two-evening lecture by Neal Brown on the aurora borealis. Each evening 100 eager individuals were treated to the science and spectacle of the aurora. Enthusiastic feedback was the impetus for making future WINTERmester lectures an annual event.

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS This summer, Jacqueline Clark, studying to become a medical assistant in UAF’s College of Rural and Community Development and Kalesha Pearson, a psychology student in UAF’s College of Liberal Arts were the recipients of the inaugural $500 R.G. and Onnie V. Bouchum/La Shina Jones Memorial Scholarships, which seeks out driven, undergraduate UAF students pursuing their first degree. Congratulations to Jaqueline and Kalesha.
A huge sign of success was our WINTERmester enrollments. 2011 yielded an enrollment increase of 28.6% over 2010 and an impressive 56.8% increase overall since WINTERmester began in 2009. Additionally, the number of student credit hours has increased by 64.2% since 2009.

Continuing the popular trend of two-week compression courses, MAYmester is a desirable option for many students at the start of the summer. Course offerings have quadrupled since MAYmester was introduced in 2007 as we continually strive to meet the course needs of students. Additionally, since 2009, enrollments have increased by 36.8% and student credit hours increased by 21.8%.

Steaming down the Amazon in a turn of the 20th century boat provided a unique beginning for 17 individuals who took part in a two-week educational adventure to Peru in October 2010. The program included a week on the Amazon as well as ascending to the heights of Machu Picchu. Incan culture and the flora and fauna of the area were mesmerizing.

In October 2011, a group of 19 spent two weeks learning about the political, cultural and natural history of Portugal. The odyssey began and ended in Lisbon, but traveled to the Roman City of Evora, through the vineyards of the Duro Valley, and to the northern port of Porto as well as the ancient capital of Coimbra and its university dating back to 1537. The trip was stunning on many levels and included a briefing by the US Ambassador.

The Family Cultural Nights, spotlighting various staff and faculty members of UAF’s international population, attracted people of all ages. Presenters included Shirish Patil from India; Jamila Hla Shwe from the Czech Republic; Etsuko Kimura Pederson and friends from Japan; sisters Josie Wooding and Elena Sparrow from the Philippines; Raaj Kurapati, an Indian who grew up in Micronesia; Josef Glowa from Germany and Juan Goula and Ana Richards from Mexico and Panama respectively. Presentations included cultural perspective, food, dance and fun for all ages.

Discover Alaska Lecture Series

Discover Alaska, co-sponsored by the Northern Alaska Environmental Center, continues to be well received by the Fairbanks community with over 600 attendees throughout the summer. This summer's lectures included Gardening in the Interior with Ann Roberts; Peonies: Varieties and Horticulture with Jan Hanscom; Climate Change with John Walsh; The Changing Arctic Landscape with Ken Tape; All About Alaska Blueberries with Pat Holloway and Tom Kuhn; Rebirth in the Aleutians: Kasatochi Survivors: Insects after the Eruption with Derek Sikes; Thrice Warmed: Heating with Wood with John Davies and Colin Craven; Building Community Resilience and Self-Reliance through Local Food with Lissa Hughes; and Ethnobotany: Traditional Uses and Knowledge of Native Plants with Amy Breen and Rose Meier.

All Summer@UAF lectures can be viewed at www.uaf.edu/summer/multimedia/
2011 Legacy Lecture:
Joe Usibelli, Sr.
Joe Usibelli, the 1992 Outstanding Philanthropist in Alaska, provided interviewer Robert Hannon with inspiring tales of hard work and success at this year’s annual Legacy Lecture. From humble beginnings in a small log cabin in Suntrana, Alaska, to present day Chairman of the Board at the Usibelli Coal Mine, Joe guided listeners through his impressive life. This event was made possible with the generous support of the UAF Alumni Association.

An Evening with Tom Bodett
Former Homer resident and NPR personality Tom Bodett was welcomed back to Alaska for a free one-man show this summer. The evening yielded stories of his life in Alaska and memoirs of his journey to “fame” with a healthy dose of laughter throughout. This event was generously supported by Robinson & Associates, PC, Alaska Airlines, Bridgewater Hotel – A Fine Fountainhead Hotel, Riverboat Discovery, Camp Denali, Follett and the Northern Alaska Tour Company.

Wait Wait...Don’t Tell Me!
The Peabody Award-winning news quiz show Wait Wait...Don’t Tell Me! graced Fairbanks this summer, bringing in fans from across the state. Scorekeeper Carl Kasell and host Peter Sagal grilled panelists Paula Poundstone, Adam Felbur and Tom Bodett on the eccentricities of the world’s current events. Homer resident Captain Andy Hillstrand, from the Discovery Channel’s Deadliest Catch, joined the Wait Wait cast and crew live to play “Not My Job.” The Fairbanks show can still be heard by going to the Wait Wait website. This event was made possible with the generous support of the Fairbanks Convention and Visitors Bureau, Fairbanks Memorial Hospital, KUAC, Alaska Airlines, If Only…A Fine Store, Bridgewater Hotel – A Fine Fountainhead Hotel, Riverboat Discovery, Camp Denali, Northern Alaska Tour Company and Kantishna Air.

Debra Blum
With tales of mobs, murders, hunches and forensic certainties, Pulitzer Prize-winning science writer Debra Blum captivated the audience who attended her evening July lecture, “Cocktails & Cyanide.” She shared tales of clever homicidal killers and early scientists who contributed to the rapid development of toxicology in the 1920s and ’30s. UAF’s Cooperative Extension Service generously supported this event.

The Jasper String Quartet
The Jasper String Quartet made a return visit to Alaska, offering a compelling evening of chamber music by Beethoven, Kernis and Brahms. Members of the quartet are violinists J Freivogel and Sae Chonabayashi, cellist Rachel Henderson Freivogel and Fairbanks’ own, violist Sam Quintal. The evening was made possible with the support of If Only... A Fine Store and Juneau Jazz Classics.

Two Pianos
Also rejoining us this summer were 2010 Rasmuson Project Grant recipient Etsuko Kimura Pederson and doctor of ethnomusicology Paul Krejci. On July 7, they presented an evening performance of Etsuko’s original, modern music for two pianos. The concert was generously supported by the Rasmuson Foundation.
Love & Logic

Jedd Hafer of the Love & Logic Institute provided a popular in-service workshop for teachers of the Fairbanks North Star Borough School District, an enthusiastically received lecture: Raising Great Kids Who Can Handle Life's Challenges Without Breaking a Sweat and an effective presentation on Applying Love and Logic Strategies with Special Needs Children. Jedd's visit left attendees requesting similar opportunities down the road. These events were kindly sponsored by the Fairbanks Resource Agency, Fairbanks North Star Borough School District, UAF Center for Distance Education and Open Arms Child Development Center.

UAF’s Golden Days Parade entry wins top prize

For the past three years UAF has participated in the Golden Days parade. What began as a small core of participants representing ten units has grown to 30 units participating. From the beginning, the School of Natural Resources Management has led the way with its tractor pulling a musical group from the Fairbanks Summer Arts Festival. In 2010, music professors Karen Gustafson and Jim Bicigo organized a marching band that added to the enjoyment of all. This year there were over 225 individuals and dozens of units participating, each carrying a banner reflecting UAF's wide diversity. UAF was given this year's award for the best entry by a non-profit organization.

The Really Free Market Times Three

In 2009, the Really Free Market began as the ultimate recycling event. Working with volunteers across campus, this Saturday event became an instant hit in the Fairbanks community. The success brought a decision to have two each summer, one in June as well as August. This year a third event was added in early October directly aimed at students. Hundreds of students came to Wood Center to get warm clothing, household goods and sporting equipment. Volunteers from the STRIVE and Alpha Phi Omega organizations assisted to make this event a success that will be repeated in the years to come.
