How will the two course levels differ from each other? How will each be taught at the appropriate level?:

Stacked course applications are reviewed by the (Undergraduate) Curricular Review Committee and by the Graduate Academic and Advising Committee. Creating two different syllabi—undergraduate and graduate versions—will help emphasize the different qualities of what are supposed to be two different courses. The committees will determine: 1) whether the two versions are sufficiently different (i.e. is there undergraduate and graduate level content being offered); 2) are undergraduates being overtaxed?; 3) are graduate students being undertaxed? In this context, the committees are looking out for the interests of the students taking the course. Typically, if either committee has qualms, they both do. More info online - see URL at top of this page.

13. JUSTIFICATION FOR ACTION REQUESTED

The purpose of the department and campus-wide curriculum committees is to scrutinize course change and new course applications to make sure that the quality of UAF education is not lowered as a result of the proposed change. Please address this in your response. This section needs to be self-explanatory. If you ask for a change in # of credits, explain why; are you increasing the amount of material covered in the class? If you drop a prerequisite, is it because the material is covered elsewhere? If course is changing to stacked (400/600), explain higher level of effort and performance required on part of students earning graduate credit. Use as much space as needed to fully justify the proposed change and explain what has been done to ensure that the quality of the course is not compromised as a result.

This course was misnumbered at the outset, and I've been meaning to change it for some time. It is an advanced international relations course. Thus, it needs to be at the 300 level, not 200 level, akin to the other two subfields of international relations, PS F322O International Law and Organization and PS 323 International Political Economy. Also, the new title is in line with the discipline's norm. The prerequisite is PS 2XX International Politics or permission of the instructor.

SYLLABUS CHECKLIST FOR ALL UAF COURSES

During the first week of class, instructors will distribute a course syllabus. Although modifications may be made throughout the semester, this document will contain the following information (as applicable to the discipline):

1. Course information:

Title, number, credits, prerequisites, location, meeting time
(make sure that contact hours are in line with credits).

2. Instructor (and if applicable, Teaching Assistant) information:

Name, office location, office hours, telephone, email address.

3. Course readings/materials:

Course textbook title, author, edition/publisher.
 Supplementary readings (indicate whether required or recommended) and any supplies required.

4. Course description:

8. Course calendar:

A schedule of class topics and assignments must be included. Be specific so that it is clear that the instructor has thought this through and will not be making it up on the fly (e.g. it is not adequate to say "lab". Instead, give each lab a title that describes its content). You may call the outline Tentative or Work in Progress to allow for modifications during the semester.

9. Course policies:

Specify course rules, including your policies on attendance, tardiness, class participation, make-up exams, and plagiarism/academic integrity.

10. Evaluation:

Specify how students will be evaluated, what factors will be included, their relative value, and how they will be tabulated into grades (on a curve, absolute scores, etc.) Publicize UAF regulations with regard to the grades of "C" and below as applicable to this course. (Not required in the syllabus, but is a convenient way to publicize this.) Link to PDF summary of grading policy for "C":

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Introduction to the major challenges of maintaining a peaceful and secure world. Considers the major threats to our security and how they are managed. Analyzes political, institutional, cultural, moral, and legal norms surrounding war and other security concerns and different means of organizing for peace and security.

COURSE GOALS

This course aims to

- educate students on major political and historical events related to international security since World War II;
- teach the main theories and concepts related to patterns of interstate interactions, particularly conflict and cooperation;
- offer substantive knowledge of a range of threats to security, such as war, nuclear weapons proliferation, terrorism, and organized crime;
- teach how the United States in particular has historically been situated in the international security apparatus; and
- develop students' reading, speaking, presentation, and critical thinking skills.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon completion of this course, students should be able to

- discuss how recent history has shaped current events related to international security and cooperation;
- explain the realist, liberal, and constructivist approaches to international relations;
- analyze the major threats to international security and peace; and
- demonstrate their reading, speaking, presentation, and critical thinking skills in preparation for other courses and future employment.

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS

This course uses a number of instructional methods to educate students on international security, including lectures, discussions and seminars, videos, presentations, and one-on-one advising sessions.

COURSE POLICIES

Academic Honesty

You are expected to adhere to the provisions of the Student Code of Conduct as outlined in the UAF catalog, available at www.uaf.edu/catalog/current/academics/regs3.html. Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated and will lead to an F for the course, at a minimum. This includes plagiarism, cheating, collusion, or fabrication. Please talk to me if you are unsure about whether or not your approach constitutes academic dishonesty.

Use of Electronics

Use of cell phones is strictly prohibited during class. Failure to comply with this policy will lower your reading, preparation, and participation grade (see below). Laptop computers may be used for note-taking purposes only. If you are caught browsing the web, checking e-mail, etc., you will be asked to put your laptop away and your reading, preparation, and participation grade will be lowered.

B-	=	80-82%

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS

Reading, Preparation, and Participation (80 points – see below)

You must come to class prepared to contribute to discussions and talk about assigned readings. The effectiveness of the course is determined largely by how well you engage the reading material, assess key concepts, and participate. Your participation grade will be calculated by how much and how well you contribute to class discussions. The use of cell phones and other electronic devices (apart from laptops for note-taking purposes) during class is prohibited and will lower your reading, preparation, and participation grade.

Current Event Assignments (10 points X 5 assignments)

- As part of your reading, preparation, and participation grade, you will periodically report on a current event pertaining to international security. Be sure to put the event in the context of what we are learning in the course. Your discussion should be brief (under five minutes). There are five current event assignments altogether. (See schedule below.)

Blackboard Discussions (10 points X 3 assignments)

- Also as part of your reading, preparation, and participation grade, you will write posts in response to prompts in Blackboard. Each post must be at least 400 words, and you must also reply and comment on another student's post with at least 100 words. There are three Blackboard discussions altogether. (See schedule below.)

Prompt Responses (100 points – 10 points X 10 assignments)

Most weeks, you must respond to a prompt related to the week's theme. The prompts are posted in Blackboard. Your responses to prompts must be at least 500 words and written in a Word document. Your overall grade will be calculated by how well you respond. Responses are due at the start of class. Late responses will not be accepted. (See schedule below.)

Argument-Based Research Paper and Presentation (150 points)

You will write a research paper on any topic related to international security and present it midway through the semester. In the paper, you will need to address the following questions:

- 1) What is your topic?
- 2) Why is it important?
- 3) What is your argument? (Your essay must make an argument and not be entirely descriptive.)
- 4) What evidence do you have to support your argument?

Your essay must:

- 1) include a cover page with your name, the course title, your paper title, and the date
- 2) be at least 10 double-spaced pages in length (not including the cover page and bibliography)
- 3) have 1-inch margins on all sides
- 4) be typed in Times New Roman, 12-point font
- 5) include numbered, descriptive headings
- 6) include page numbers, centered at the bottom of the page
- 7) include a bibliography

You must submit a hard copy of the paper to me at class on TBD. Student presentations on research papers will take place on TBD. Late papers will not be accepted.

Final Exam (150 points)

The final exam is a comprehensive take-home exam in essay format. You will have one week to complete it. I will distribute it (with detailed instructions) on the last day of class, TBD, and it will be due via e-mail on TBD. Expect a confirmation e-mail. The exam will cover topics from class, so the readings, lectures, and your notes will be an invaluable resource to help you complete the final. Late finals will not be accepted.
